Animalytix CEO Speaks at Cowen and Company Annual Healthcare Conference

Animalytix CEO Chris Ragland was a featured panelist at the Cowen and Company 35th Annual Healthcare Conference held in Boston, MA. The annual event, which is among the leading life sciences conferences each year, was expanded in 2015 to include two animal health sessions in response to the growing interest among financial markets in the animal health sector.

Clint Lewis, Executive Vice President and President, U.S. Operations at Zoetis lead the morning animal health panel discussion while Ragland spoke in the afternoon session. Key topics covered during Ragland's hour long session included the impact of expanding retail sales for veterinary drugs, unmet market needs for pain management, dermatological and oncology drugs as well as the growing interest in monoclonal antibody therapies for veterinary applications.
